THE VINEYARD

Pinot Noir fans appreciate exotic vineyard sites and eccentric vineyard owners. Mark Pasternak and his Devil's Gulch vineyard fit the bill on both counts. Located on a steep, convoluted hillside adjacent to the Point Reyes Peninsula in Western Marin County, Devil's Gulch is a pioneering planting. Mark lives on the property with his family and is truly passionate (some would say obsessive) about increasing the fame of Marin County as a viticultural area. He is dedicated to sustainable agricultural practices and minimal chemical use. The ranch combines steep terraces (up to 60% grade), shallow soil, the harsh climate of the Marin coast, protected exposures, and well-chosen Dijon clonal selections to produce a small crop of unique fruit. The blustery spring weather of Marin gives us poor set and an extremely small crop of tiny berries, while the reliable late fall weather promotes great phenolic maturity and wild fruit intensity in the wine. For us, wine is all about personality, and Devil's Gulch is one of our favorite examples of that.

WINEMAKING

The fruit was hand sorted and destemmed into small open top fermenters, then cold-soaked for 5 days in order to gently extract spice and fruit characters, while mitigating harsher tannins. We are particularly gentle on the Devil's Gulch in order to produce silky wine from the inherently high tannin tiny berries. The incoming fruit was split into two lots—one from the terraces, one from the upper slope—to vary fermentation techniques according to the nature of each particular area. The final blend was assembled from our favorite barrels in each lot in Spring 2022. For this wine, the Seguin Moreau Icone barrels bring out its natural earthiness, and Taransaud fills in an underlying richness. We choose Icone as well for the one year-old barrels to play up the mushroom quality of the wine even more. The wine aged for another year before being bottled in April 2023.

THE WINE

Dan's first comment was "Volnay on steroids!" when he tasted our 2021 Devil's Gulch Pinot. This is one of those wines you'd almost be happy to just smell all day—but then you'd miss out on the sumptuous follow-through in the mouth! The nose leads with a rich and dense burst of wild berry, underlain with a sweet floral tone. Mushroom and redwood duff play backup, adding to the complex layers of the aromas, luring you in to take the first sip. The mouth is packed with juicy raspberry and marionberry, with supporting notes of sandalwood, nutmeg and thyme. We won't hold it against you if you want to just enjoy this beauty on its own, but it will shine even more with its Ranch cohabitators, Devil's Gulch rabbit, pork, lamb, or quail, roasted or grilled to bring out their succulence to match the wine. Local Point Reyes Farmstead Gouda or TomaTruffle make great cheese matches.

Dutton-Goldfield Winery began in a vineyard in 1998, when longtime colleagues and friends Steve Dutton and Dan Goldfield recognized a shared vision between them—to craft wines that express the personalities of their vineyards, and which they'd enjoy drinking at their own dinner tables. Our mission is to produce world-class wines that display the brightness of fruit, complexity, structure and balance that are reflective of our cool coastal home.
